

Foreword

In the middle of the summer we are very busy, even during the actual financial crisis. It is not easy to paddle during hot days, but, believe us, it is even harder to write. But if you are still sitting at home and thinking what to do and where to go, perhaps these news help you to make your decision. It's still not too late for this summer.

Adventure of the lifetime

The first “Adventure of the lifetime” tour this year at the end of June was characterised by unusually high water level in the Drava river. There were almost no gravel and sand bars in the river, but surrounding forests were flooded and it was very interesting to paddle among trees or in small channels, which are mostly dry during low water.

Network of narrow channels – the real wilderness

Like always, the birds were numerous, even some rare species, and wild boars were swimming near us from time to time. They showed no fear of us. Obviously, they saw no difference between the group of wild people and the rest of wilderness.

Kayaking and ... much more – new offer

Kayaking around Dalmatian islands is interesting, but... For those who wish to explore Dalmatia in various ways, we established, together with our partners, a new eight day tour with kayaking combined with other activities, such as sailing, mountain biking, trekking, rock climbing, windsurfing and jeep safari. The activities are optional and the whole tour is very flexible. The tour includes the old city of Trogir and islands Brač and Hvar. Why don't you just visit our web site or ask us?

Biking and exploring old and abandoned, but beautiful villages of Dalmatian islands

Croatian beaches

The rest of the world is just around the corner. But it's like thousands of miles away. This tiny little piece of paradise is just for you. For two of you. "Falco" can show you the way, but that's all. You won't need any additional help, will you?

Small hidden beach for two on one of Croatian islands – one of many similar romantic places
